ATLANTA, GA., SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 18, 1891. TEN PAGES.

HE SPOKE PLAINLY

AND TOLD THE PRESIDENT THAT THE SOUTH

VOL. XXII.

WAS FIRM ON CAUCASIAN SUPREMACY.

The Mayor of Memphis in His Address of Welcome Told Mr. Harrison the Plain Truth-The President's Reply.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 17 .- The elegant special bearing the presidential party arrived at 8 o clock promptly on schedule time, after an all-night run from Birmingham, Ala., over the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham road, across the northern part of Mississippi. No stops were made in that state, however and the only incident of the run occurred at Jasper, Ala. That town was illuminated with many bonfires in honor of the president and nearly 250 of the inhabitants gathered at the station to pay their respects.

It was 11 o'clock when the train reached there and the president, Postmaster General Wanamaker and the ladies of the party retired for the night.

The people were disappointed at not being able to see the president but were gratified at being allowed to pass through and inspect the observation car, with the numerous floral offerings received in Birmingham. Brief speeches were made by George W. Boyd and Russell

This morning when the train reached Bellview station, seven miles of this city, it was boarded by a committee of citizens from Memphis, headed by R. C. Graves, William H. Moore and G. C. Matthews. A number of ladies accompanied the party, and presented Mrs. Harrison and the other ladies of the president's party with bouquets of La France

Mayor L. C. Clapp and other municipal officers received the president on his arrival in the city. A large crowd, including the local militia, was gathered at the station, and cheered the president when he appeared on the platform. The party was immediately assigned to carriages, which were awaiting them, and driven up Main street to the Merchants' Exchange, fronting on Court square, which was massed with people.

The president was escorted up the iron steps and introduced to the assembled crowd by Mayor Clapp, who welcomed the president on behalf of the city. The president re-based mainly on the following remarks made by Mayor Clapp in his address of welcome: This is a restored, harmonious and indestructi-ble union. Oblivious as to the fact whether you are identified with one or the other of the great national parties, our people unite with one heart and with one voice in honoring you as the official head of our common country. In dealing with the great problem that has ever confronted any people, it is the habit and our intention, to be just and law-abiding, whilst at the same time with an instinct, Mr. President, which pervades our race, the paramount aim is to squard our social purity, preserve our civilization and maintain purity, preserve our civilization and maintain Caucasian prestige and supremacy.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

My Fellow-Citizens: The name of the city of Memphis was familiar to me in my early boyhood. I was born and reared upon one of the tributaries of the great river upon which your city is located; these river marts of commerce were familiar trading posts to the farmers of the Ohio valley. I well ing posts to the farmers of the Ohio valley. I well remember when, on the shores of my father's farm, old "Broadhorn" was loaded from the hay press and cornerib to trade with the plantations along the lower Mississippi. I remember to have heard from him and the neighbors, who constituted the crew of those pioneer crafts of river navigation, of the perils of these great waters; of the snags and caving banks of the lower Mississippi. In those times these states were largely supplied with grain and forage from the northwestern states. Here you were giving your attention to one or two great staple products, for which you found a large foreign market.

I congratulate you that the progress of events has made you not less agricultural, but has diversified your agriculture so that you are not now wholly dependent upon these great staples for the income of your farms. It is a great thing that you are now raising more wheat, more corn, more you are now raising more wheat, more corn, more versified your agriculture so that you are not now wholly dependent upon these great staples for the income of your farms. It is a great thing that you are now raising more wheat, more corn, more hogs and cattle; that you are now raising potatoes, and watermelons, and cabbage. The benefits of this diversification are very great, and the change symbolizes more than we at first realize. This change means that we are now coming to an understanding. that meanness cannot be predicated of any honest industry. I rejoice that you are adding to diversified agriculture diversified manufacturing pursuits; that you are turning your thought to compressing and spinning cotton, as well as raising it. I know no reason why these cotton states, which produce 75 per cut of the cotton of the world, should not spin the greater portion of it. I know of no reason why they should export it as raw material, rather than as a manufactured product, holding in their midst the profits of this transformation of the raw material to the finished product. (Applause.)

I hope it may be so. I see evidence that the people are turning their attention to new industries and are bringing into the midst of these farming communities a large population of artisans and laborers to consume, at your own doors, the product of your farms. I am glad that a liberal government is making this great waterway to the sea safe and capable of an uninterrupted use. I am glad that it is bringing you in contact with the ports of the gulf that look out with mear and inviting aspect towards the great trade in South America that we shall soon possess. I am glad to believe that these great river towns will speedly exchange their burdens with American ships at the mouth of the Mississippi to be transported to foreign ports under the flag of our country. (Great cheering.)

This government of ours is a compact of the people to be governed by a majority, expressing itself by lawful methods. [Cheers.] Everything in this country is to be brought to the measure of the law. I propose no other rule either individual of as public officer.

the law. I propose no other rule either individual or as public officer.

I cannot, in any degree, let down this rule [Gles of no and cheers] without violating my official duty. There must be no other supremacy than that of lawful majorities. Therefore, I think, while I realize and sympathize with your difficulties, we must all come, at last, to this conclusion that the supremacy of the law is the one supremacy in this country of ours. [Cheers.]

Now, my fellow citizens, I thank you for this warm and magnificent demonstration of your respect, accepting cordially the expression of the chief of your city government that you are sincere, earnest, patriotic, devoted people. I beg to leave with each of you the suggestion that each in his place shall do what he can to maintain social order and public peace; that the lines here and everywhere shall be between the well-disposed and ill-disposed.

order and public peace; that the mess set of severywhere shall be between the well-disposed and ill-disposed.

The effort of a speech to this immense throng is too great for me. I beg to assure you that I carry from the great war of sentiment no ill-will to say. (Cheers.) I am glad that the confederate soldier, confessing that defeat which has brought him blessings that would have been impossible otherwise, has been taken again into full participation in the administration of the government; that no penalties, limitations or other inflictions rest upon him. I have taken, and can always take, the hand of a brave confederate soldier with confidence and respect. (Great cheers.) I would put him under one yoke only; and that is the yoke which the victors in that struggle bore when they went home and laid off their uniforms; the yoke of law and the obligational ways to obey it. (Cheers.) Upon that platform, without distinction between victors and ranquished, we enter together upon possibilities as a people that we cannot overestimate. I believe the nation is lifting itself to new life; that this flag shall flost on unfamiliar seus, and that this coming prosperity will be equally shared by all our people. (Prolonged cheering.)

A FUBLIC RECEPTION.

When the president had concluded and the cheering had subuded, loud calls were made for Mr. Wanamaker. He responded in a few vall-chosen remarks, referring in a pleasing manner to the prosperity of the south as evidently increasing. He was followed by General Rusk, after which the public reception was begun, the president standing in the doorway welcoming handshakers.

The public reception was concluded about 11 o'clock, and the party took their carriages and were escorted to the Louisville and Nashville depot, the train in the meantime having been transferred there. Here another reception was held by the entire party, a large crowd passing through the train. A number of beautiful floral offerings from private citizens were placed all around the train.

Governor Eagle and the Arkansas commissioners who arrived this morning, met the party at the depot and will act as escort of the party to Little Rock.

At 11:55 o'clock the train passed slowly down the incline to the immense ferry boat of the Little Rock and Memphis road, and at noon, amid the tremendous din of whistles, the boat moved slowly from the shore, and the presidential party was well on its way to the Arkansas capital. The president today informed the committee in charge of arrangements at Galveston, that he preferred that there should be no demonstration in that city on Sundaynext, as itis his desire to devote the whole day to a muchneeded rest. The review of the school children, arranged for that day will, therefore, be abandoned.

OLD ESTHER MET HIM. A pleasing incident of the president's visit to Memphis was witnessed just as the train left the depot. Esther Morby, an aged colored left the depot. Esther Morby, an aged colored woman who belonged to Mr. Harrison's grandfather, John E. Page, and who was a playmate of the president in childhood, at Page Brook, Va., was trying to get a glimpse of him. For a long time the police had kept her back with the crowd, until a reporter came along and escorted her in. From window to window of his car she went, not satisfied until she had found him and had shaken him cordially by the hand. It is hardly possible to tell who enjoyed it more, the president or his old playmate. The pleasure was evidently mutual. Fearing lest she would not see him, she had written him a letter and given it to an officer to deliver, which he did after the train started.

Arrival at Little Rock.

Arrival at Little Rock. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 17.-The presi dent and party received a cordial welcome at this place. The governor of the state, the mayor of Little Rock and a committee of citizens including representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic and confederate veterans, met them at Memphis and escored them to the capital of Arkansas. The receiving party was increased at Carlisle, a station thirty miles out, by a number of ladies from Little Rock, including Mrs. Eagle, wife of the governor, and Mrs. Caldwell. A military salute was fired as the train reached this city, and the president was cheered by the large crowd assembled. He and the rest of his party were escorted to the statehouse, where a formal address of welcome was made by the governor and responded to by the president, Secretary Rusk and Postmaster General Wanamaker. The president then held a short public reception. mayor of Little Rock and a committee of citi-

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17 .- The commercial congress was called for 9 o'clock, but, owing to the late hour of adjournment of the reception last night, the delegates were slow to assemble, and it was after 10 o'clock when the convention was called to order.

After prayer by Rev. Dr. Vassar, the unfin-shed programme of yesterday was taken up, the subject being "The Transportation and Improvement of Waterways, Lakes, Gulfs and Pacific Ports." S. A. Thompson, secretary of the Commercial Club of Duluth, advocated the improvement of the waterways as affording the cheapest transportation.

Colonel T. T. Catchings, of Mississippi, argued that an increase in the water traffic, however great, would not decrease the railroad business but would rather increase it. Hon. J. M. Murphy, of Iowa, spoke on the

"America for Americans"
"We have been told," he said, "that this land is broad enough for all, but I submit that the countries of the old world have made it the dumping ground for their paupers and criminal classes, and I believe that I speak for the whole American people when I say that the time has come when that must stop. There is enough room for all who want to come here to be one of us, but not a foot of ground for one of those paupers and criminals of the old world. I but not a foot of ground for one of those paupers and criminals of the old world. I may feel deeply upon the subject, but I have lately come fresh from a most terrible object lesson, which too clearly indicates the need of a change in our immigation laws.

"I believe that this congress sught to declare that the national congress should prohibit the landing of immigrants who are not willing to become good citizens. I think this law ought to be put into such shape that no man who has not, within a given time, filed his intention for citizenship, which is now altogether too short, and who has not within another given time taken jout what are known as his second papers, ought to ba shipped back to the country from which he came. Gentlemen, it took twenty-one years to make a voter out of each one of you; it does not take twenty-one seconds to make a voter out of a foreigner. Let no man step a foot upon the soil of Columbia who cannot bring a true bill of moral cleanliness.

"I am, as some of you know, a states-right democrat, but I believe the power to make American citizens ought to be taken from the state courts and given to the general government. Perhaps you do not realize the need of all this, but in looking up the nationality of those criminals whom the citizens of New Orleans executed not long since, we found that in the naturalization papers of one of those his certificate of good moral character was certified to by two of his fellow-criminals. I believe that the scenes which we have witnessed during the last few weeks ought to be impossible. The raising of the glorious stars and stripes under that of a foreign flag, as was done in my own state, and the riddling of our flags by bullets, as in Pennsylvania, very clearly indicates the need of a change of policy as regards our immigration laws."

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, April 17.—Futures opened at a small decline and values were further reduced, but partially recovered and closed quiet. The depression early in the day was due to a decline in Liverpool that was not wholly unexpected. A further depression was caused by the full interior movement, pointing to comparatively large plantation deliveries for the past week, with very good weather at the south. The recovery was on a moderate demand to cover contracts, and a small squabble over "puts" and "calls." Spot cotton was weak. The Sun's Cotton Review.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 17 .- [Special.]-The democratic caucus adjourned early last night, on motion of Senator Call's friends. The break of Overstreet, an alliand from Call to Speer, created serious alarm. A considerable break from Call was feared, which brought a sudden adjournment.

The contest has become a cold business fair, entirely free from all excitement and bad blood. The contending forces have abandoned vituperation and force measures, and both are relying upon the power of persuasion. THE SPEER CANVASS.

An alliance caucus of the rank and file was held at 4 o'clock p. m. Five of the prominent leaders were requested not to attend. The purpose was to harmonize, if possible, which could not be done with the old leaders present. They refuse to give out the result of this effort. WHAT MAY BE DONE.

It is believed that, unless some harmonious action can be determined on by the alliance, Call will be voted for by all of his supporters in open session on Tuesday next and This would override the two-thirds rule, and said that on yesterday a prominent man had said to him, that if he would vote for Call, it would be worth $500 to him, which created profound sensation.

Mr. Clark arose and said that as a member of this legislature, as a democrat, and as a friend of Senator Call, he demanded that Mr.

Whitehurst disclose the name of the party.

Mr. Whitehurst gave the name of Mr. J. H. McClellan, from the county of Calhoun, not a member of the legislature. Under the excitement and confusion, calls were made for another ballot. The roll was called, and the following is the twelfth ballot: Call, 56; Speer, 39; Bloxham, 1. THE BOGUS STORY Sent Out About Mocca, the Murdered

Italian. CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 17 .- [Special.]-A sensational story, dated Rockingham, this state, was printed in several daily papers, concerning John B. Mocca, the Italian who was so brutally murdered in this city Saturday night by one Henry Branham. The telegram stated that Mocca told a prominent citizen of Gaffney City that he had killed nine citizen in the old country with his stiletto. It is most emphatically denied by the dead man's wife and daughter. Your correspondent carried the article to the little fruit store on Trade street this afternoon, and asked her if, in her husband's lifetime, such a crime was committed by him. She replied in broken English, sayng that her husband heard of America and its good people, and how fast people could make money over here, and this was the cause of leaving their native country, and not because the thoughts of the nine innocent men's cause the thoughts of the nine innocent men's blood having been spilled. The feature, which has been brought to light-by some irresponsible newspaper correspondent is likely to change the feelings of many who are shallow-brained enough to believe anything from a despicable source. A subscription list has been presented to the citizens of Charlotte, asking aid for this unfortunate family, and has found many subscribers, the family being in almost destitute circumstances.

state troops, coupled with the large consignment of relief money, has braced the backones of 14,000 strikers still out, and the labor headquarters are radiant tonight as compared with the deep gloom of a few days past. Two companies, however, were left at Morewood, where they are to remain. The operators are growing nervous, and have doubled guards at

As The Constitution Stated, to the Georgia Pacific-But Mr. Inman Denies that New Bond-Issue Story.

New York, April 17 .- President John H. Inman, of the Richmond Terminal system, returned today from his extensive trip broughout the south. In regard to the report that the Terminal system would issue a lot of new securities, Mr. Inman said that there was no truth in it, that the matter was not even considered. He thought that the easing of the Georgia Central road would be accomplished.

The idea contemplated was to lease the Georgia Central to the Georgia Pacific road, the Richmond and Danville people guaranteeing the lease, thus practically leasing the Central themselves. The Richmond and Danville people guarantee 7 per cent dividend on the Georgia Central stock. The leased line would be under the control of the officers of the Terminal system. Mr. Inman thought the matter would be decided inside of ten days.

When asked about the report that an English syndicate was about to purchase the property of the East Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, Mr. Inman said the proposition of the syndicate was to purchase for $2,500,000 the Tennessee division, which includes four iron furnaces, 1,000 coke ovens, three or four iron mines and 115,000 acres of land. This proposition would be submitted to the stockholders at a special meeting called for that purpose, to be held at Tracy City, Tenn., May 7th. He did not know whether the offer of the syndicate would be accepted by the stock-

FROM FOREIGN FIELDS. The Irish Land Bill in the House of Com-

LONDON, April 17.—[Copyright 1891 by the New York Associated Press.]—Although Morley's amendment introducing in the Irish land bill the principle of local control was the point on which the Irish sections were expected to sink all differences, the spirit of faction got the upper hand. Parnell's amendment to the Morley amendment, followed by Sexton's mendment to the Parnell amendment, pro duced a feeling of irritation in the ranks of the opposition, inducing many members to leave the house without voting on the most important attempt to alter the bill in commit-tee. After this defeat the battle against the easure will be a guerrilla warfare. No leader of the liberals will make any further effort to alter the character of the government pro-

Labouchere, leading the extreme radicals, may make good his boast of fighting the bill line by line, but the front liberal bench will take no share in the proceedings. The bill has virtually passed the committee stage in the form which the government projected. BALFOUR'S STATEMENT.

Amidst a waste of words that wearied the ouse, an announcement of the most striking house, an amouncement of the most straing kind was Balfour's statement that the bill which he was preparing to give Ireland local government would be circumscribed in character. His allusion to the operation of the land bill under local elected bodies clearly points to the scheme of county councils similar in structure to the English county coucils. The announcement comes in time to be used in the impending miniature general elections. There are now eight parliamentary seats vacant, of which seven will be contested, and these contests will afford the opposing parties some idea of the result of the coming appeal to the country. It is significant of the position of the home rule question as still holding the foremost place, that the candidates for the existing vacancies find themselves constrained to dilate upon pledges for a just settlement for Ireland. The platform of several liberal candidates discloses planks prepared for the general electoral campaign, including, besides home rule, those in favor of eight hours for miners, the one-man-vote principle, free calcaction church disastablishment, direct kind was Balfour's statement that the bill home rule, those in favor of eight hours for miners, the one-man-vote principle, free education, church disestablishment, direct liquor veto and an amendment of the law of conspiracy in favor of the workmen. This is a broad and strong programme with which the conservatives will find it difficult to compete. Tonight's division in the house of commons broadly indicated the line of parliamentary action of the Irish members. The McCarthyites voted with Morley, while Parnell, McKenna, Mahoney, Colonel Nolan and other seceders joined the conservatives.

THE VERNEY SCANDAL. A lobby report associates others besides Cap-tain Verney and Decobain with scandals that will require their retirement from the house of ons. "Social purity" vigilants, to who private shadowing are due the charges against Captain Verney and the flight of Dec have been hunting down other members sus-pected of being unfaithful to their wives. The evidence so obtained has been sent, in several evidence so obtained has been sent, in several instances, to the wives most concerned. Some of the wives have resented the action of the vigilants and joined in the demand for an apology, while in other cases the result has been an inquiry leading to the divorce court.

Regarding Captain Verney, intimate friends and associates hold that he is guittless of knowingly abetting Procuress Florent in inveigling a girl. The police have lost track of Florent. Letters signed "Wilson," who is supposed to be Captain Verney, can be given an interpretation less obnazious than the offense of asking her to work as procuress.

be Captain Verney, can be given an interpretation less obnoxious than the offense of asking her to work as procuress.

If Captain Verney surrenders for trial it will be a mooted point wether the letters alleged to have been written by him in France and delivered in England will be sufficient ground for prosecution. The question of the expulsion of Captain Verney from the house of commons greatly agitates the members. Precedents show that this must be done under a direct vote after the trial of the offender or absconder from justice.

In the event of Decobain's failing to surrender to justice the liberals will move to expel him from parliament. Decobain was a constant attender at prayer meetings held by Christian peers and members of the house of commons in the chamber of the house, in which meeting no one is allowed to join excepting legislators and officials. The accusations against him, dating back two years, are due to the assiduous "rooting" of the vigilants. His friends do not abandon the hope that he will be able to disprove the charge against him. The net of the evidence woven around a man in the dark, especially in a case of unnatural crimes, is especially difficult to unravel. A number of commoners want a private committee to examine the charges, and to report whether public discussion is advisable.

Mr. Parnell's refusal to assist McCarthy to Mr. Parnell's refusal to assist McCarthy to release the evicted tenants' fund closes the matter as far as McCarthy is concerned. The pressure of public indignation, including that of the warmest Parnell the partisans, is now relied on to force Parnell to alter his attitude. An important occurrence in the negotiations, hitherto undisclosed, shows that Parnell has been reallows to the suffering of tenants. hitherto undisclosed, shows that Parnell has been callous to the suffering of tenants throughout. McCarthy states that early in March he met Parnell in the lobby of the house of commons and urged the necessity of immediate decision to help tenants who were starving. Parnell replied that he did not see any urgency, but he promised to consider the matter. Subsequent endeavors to reach him and get him to break his silence falled to have any effect until he was compelled to respond to McCarthy's recent appeal. Parnell's aim in delaying the release of the funds is obviously to destroy the tenants' combination and thus to play into the hands of the government.

bination and thus to play into the hands of the government.

Since Healy, across the floor of the house, renewed the challenge to Parnell to test Cork, unionist leaders there have sent Parnell assurance that they will leave him a clear field to fight out the battle, and that no unionist candidate nor junionist support will obscur the issue. This offer deprives Parnell of his last excuse for not facing Healy, but he will not fight. The decision of the Cork board of guardians yesterday calling upon Parnell to resign shows that every chance he had of success has vanished.

ess has vanished.

Discontent of trade unions in regard to the composition of the royal labor commission grows in intensity. At a meeting today the parliamentary committee of the unions declared hostility to the commission unless larger representation was given to the trades. The opposition is not directed to any particular

Messrs. Broadhurst, Howell and John Burns concur in denouncing the commission as a farce. Sheffield asks the government to appoint a representative of the iron and steel ignore the existence of the commission unless it is reformed by the withfrawal of a number of representatives of capital and the filling

Referring to the New Orleans lynching, many papers discuss the question why Italian murder returns exceed those of every other nation on earth. The St. James Gazette, quoting Bosco's statistics on homicide, shows that the Italians are eight times more murderour than other Europeans; that in Italy ten persons are tried every day for murder and eight are convicted, while host of homicides are never recorded. The Italian at home, it says, is worse than the Italian abroad. The conclusion is that the Italian has murder in his blood, and that the racial excitability is heightened by the warm climate and the national habit of the use of the knife.

IT RATTLED THEM. Italians Do Not Relish Blaine's Answer to

Rome, April 17.—The Messagero today says that Blaine's reply to Rudini's last note evinces a great desire of Blaine to elude the demand of the Italian government to escape from indemnifying the families of the men lynched at New Orleans, and to refrain from acceding to the Italian government's right to intervene in the New Orleans affair.

The Popolo Romano says that, in view of the tenor of Blaine's answer to Rudiui, it is difficult to form any idea as to how or where the matter will end.

THE SUBJECT OF GENERAL COMMENT. di Rudini's last note on the subject of the New Orleans affair is the only important sub-ject of conversation and newspaper comment throughout Italy. The full text of the reply reached this city today, and Rudini, Minister Porter and other persons holding positions which would enable them to express valuable opinions upon the New Orleans dispute, were besieged with interviewers. The substance of opinions is that the controversy is in course of adjustment.

WILL BISMARCK TRY AGAIN? Another Election Necessary, as No On

Berlin, April 17.—The latest returns from Geestemunde are: Prince Bismarck, 7,557; Schmalfeld (socialist), 3,928; Plate (Gueiph), 3,343; Adloff (freisinnige), 2,619. A second ballot will be necessary between Bismarck and Schmalfeld; as a majority of votes is necessary in order to entitle the candidate to election. The apathy of the electors is the most remarkable feature of the contest. Over 40 per cent of the electors did not appear at the polls. The nationalists at the last election polled a sufficient number of votes to swamp all rivals, but now they only muster a bare all rivals, but now they only muster a bar one-fourth of the electors. One reason of apath; was that Bismarck did not take any part in the contest. He did not even issue an address to the electors.

MRS. MARTIN A SELF-POSSESSED PERSON

Who Seems to Understand the Policy of Taking Care of Herself—The Trial Opens, and the Play Begins.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 17.—[Special.]— Mrs. Julia Martin, charged with the murder Mrs. Julia Martin, charged with the murder of her husband's brother, Edward T. Martin, was arraigned before the criminal court today for trial, and a shrewder prisoner than she, it is safe to say, was never brought within its THE WOMAN WAS ALERT.

The first three hours were consumed in securing a jury, and during that time the neatly dressed prisoner sat apparently the least concerned of any in the crowded courtroom, though it was easily discernible that it was she, and not her counsel, that was the challenger, when a juror, after examination, was deemed undesirable.

deemed undesirable.

It is not, and will not be, claimed by Mrs.
Martin's attorneys that she did not shoot Martin, and she appreciates the peculiar position; in which an admission of having fired the shot that killed him will place her.
As each juror was called, she faced and watched closely the manner in which he care watched closely the manner in which he gave his answers. If after the examination by the judge he was declared competent, a slight not of acceptance or a side nod of the head to her counsel signified whether or not he should serve. From the time the first juror was called until teh panel that was to try her case was completed, except to eye the juror, she did no once change her posture or offer a word either of inquiry or advice to her attending counsel. A simple nod of the head signified her will in the matter, and it was obeyed.

She was accompanied to the courtroom by three well-known Birmingham ladies, members of a wealthy church congregation, who have taken her under their care, and all were dressed in black from bonnet to foot.

ESTABLISHING THE CASE. After the jury had been completed, Mrs. Martin's counsel rose and pleaded "not guilty," and "insanity at the time of the act."

The first few witnesses called were the physicians who attended Mr. Martin at the time he was shot, and were called only to show that the deceased had been shot, and that he had died from the wound.

THE DETECTIVE AGENCY.

The greatest difficulty to be experienced by the defendant in her trial will be the se-curing of cartain witnesses connected, it is al-leged, with E. H. Kernan's detective agency, who, Mrs. Martin claims, were in her husband's relatives' employ to trap her into such conduct as would enable him to secure a divorce. On that same issue the proper papers have also been issued for the purpose of compelling the Western Union Telegraph Company to produce all correspondence sent through their office by the detectives regarding her case. Should this move prove successful, it is

AN IMPORTANT WITNESS. The most important witness examined in the case today is P. A. O'Byrne, a ticket agent of Memphis. He testified that Mrs. Martin had called at the depot for a ticket to Birmingham, that she seemed in great trouble; that he took an interest in her, and invited her into his office, where she could wait for the train in silence and seclusion. While there she told him of a woman in Texas, her old home, who had shot and killed a man at the depot for deserting her, and then, continued the witness, she said, looking at me in a peculiar way:

"If you should hear of another similar occ know that it is me." During the cross-examination the witness and Mrs. Martin's counsel had a little tilt, caused by a question that had several times been asked him, which ended by his calling on the court for protection, and then settling himself down to good, clear account of all that happened while Mrs.

Martin was seated in his Memphis office.

A SUDDEN DECLARATION. When dismissed, he arose and said: "Well, I'd like to say this before I go: Mrs. Marsin impressed me of the fact that she was decidedly eccentric, or else insane." This declaration was taken into consider tion; that it came from the prosecution's witness, created a very favorable impression for the fair defendant, who bowed her head and accepted it in her characteristic way. The court, shortly after, adjourned to meet at 9

TWO LONE GRAVES.

NORFOLK, Va., April 17.—[Special.]—About seven miles from Norfolk there is an old burying ground that has been abandoned for years, and which is now only used as a pasture for and which is now only used as a pasture for stock. In this place, almost deserted by man and tramped by animals, there are two graves where Georgia soldiers sleep. One of the slabs was broken off and had been carried ten feet from the grave. It was taken up and restored to its place by Mr. J. Walter Hosier.

The ex-confederates of Georgia should take an interest in these forsakent graves. The brave soldiers who rest beneath them belonged to Toombs' volunteers, of the Fourth Georgia Regiment, and their names are William Ginn and John L. Fowler, who died at Camp Jack-son in 1861. #### THE NEGRO ESCAPES.

THE STORY OF HIS PRARFUL CRIME TOLD.

He Skips Out to Columbus, Where He Hide Several Months—The Officers on His Track Are Baffled Again.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 17 .- [Special.]-THE the fact of two most enterprising officers of this city being on the track of the notorious negro Louis Lewis, alias Henry Dixon, who mur dered his wife in Macon last November. Detectives Patterson and Wilder, of Macon, arrived here later and joined in pursuit. A reward had been offered for Dixon's arrest and hence the eagerness. The dispatch last night stated that the negro, in order to escape, had plunged into Abercrombie creek, followed by an officer, and that he then sank. It is now stated that during the chase the negro was fired at twice, and hit both times, once in the arm and then in the heel, which caused him to limp as he continued running. The natural supposition was that he had drowned. Today, early, however, the pursuit was again take

HE ESCAPES AGAIN. The dragging of the creek failed to result in any discovery. Subsequently the officers learned that Dixon, alias Lewis, had again baffled them, and had managed to creep out of the creek and was seen at a place four miles west of Columbus, where he had secured some clothes and money, and had continued his flight. Detective Patterson has been following his trail all day, but up to last account tonight he had not succeeded in capturing his man, but is determined to have him if possible. It is thought that his wounds will compel him to stop somewhere for relief, and he may be apprehended.

THE STORY OF HIS CRIME. The particulars show the negro's crime to have been of a most atrocious nature. Louis Lewis, as he was then known, was, in the latter part of November last, living with his wife and several children three miles west of Macon, on the Columbus road. He was engaged in farming, and was considered an ordinary, quiet and peaceable man. His domestic rela as, however, were not of a pleasant nature and frequently culminated in a row. On the night of the 28th of November, Lewis and his wife were at a store near their home, at which a crowd of negroes was congregated. Lewis was drinking and somewhat troublesome. He carried his wife into the bar attached to the store and commanded her to drink with him. She refused, whereupon he began cursing and abusing her. At this time another negro stepped up and said something to Lewis about reating his wife. This interference nar rowly averted a row. "Come up and take a drink with me," said the party who interfered to the woman. She accepted, and walked up to the counter. Her companion handed her a glass of whisky.

"If you can't drink with me, you don't lrink with anybody," said Lewis to his wife.

Touch that and I'll blow your brains out."

"Do it," spoke back the woman, defiantly, and autring the glass to her lips she deshed

"Do it," spoke back the woman, defiantly, and, putting the glass to her lips, she dashed off the whisky. Before she could replace the glass on the counter she was lying dead on the floor. Before any one had time to realize what had happened the murderer had fled. He came at once to Columbus, remaining in the city a few days, and afterwards hiring out on a farm a few miles west of the city. He has remained on that until now. Several times since the murder Macon officers have been here in search of the negro.

DEATHS IN GEORGIA.

Mr. W. H. Howard, of the old cotton firm of W. H. Howard & Sons, Augusta, Ga., died at his home yesterday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Howard was at one time president of the Empire Cotton mills. Having served Augusta in many positions of trust and honor, he was one of her most prominent citizens, as well as one of the leading cotton men of the south. A ready and generous contributor to every good eause, he was greatly beloved by all the people of Augusta. Kind and sympathetic, he was emphatically the friend of the poor. He died after a long and useful life in his eighty-eighth year, having amassed an immense fortune by his sterling honesty, Judgment and perseverance. Mr. Howard was an officer in the Mexican war, with the rank of major, in which he was ja brave and gallant soldier, and was highly complimented for heroic service. Dr. George J. Howard, the son-in-law of Hon. Turner Goldsmith, of Atlanta, is his eldest son; Major W. H. Howard, Jr., who married the eldest daughter of Dr. J. C. Avary, was his second son, and Mr. Charles H. THAT GREAT FORTUNE TO WHICH A

Eugene M. Drake Story Is Said to Be Genuine, and the Oglethorpe Man May Be a Millionaire.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 17.—[Special.]—It sems that the story published in regard to the ortune that has come to Mr. Eugene M. Drake, of Oglethorpe, Ga., is not a hoax. The Augusta Evening Herald says that from proofs recently submitted it is convinced that the affair is thoroughly robbed of all possibility of hoax proclivities, and is straight. The following facts will throw additional light on the Sir Francis Drake was a power in his time in England—during the Elizabethan period. His estates were, with very few except the grandest in the kingdom. Not long after his death his properties became entangled in law. Later they were left without a successful claimant for years. A gentleman by the name of Drake, resident in Ohio, long ago came in possession of facts that demonstrated to him that he or some one of his family connections was the rightful heir.

He spent much money in a careful inquiry into the matter. He soon convinced himself that Eugene M. Drake was the rightful owner of the property and title. The Ohio Drake then entered into a contract with the Georgia Drake to the effect that if he, the Ohio Drake, were successful in securing the estate the Georgia Drake should divide it with the Ohioan. A well-known investor agent going to England not so long back was given the matter in charge. It was this agent who passed through Augusta day before yesterday.

This agent found little difficulty in proving the claim of the Georgia Drake. But, in so doing, he annulled the contract existing between the heir and the Ohioan, for law of primogeniture of England does not permit a division of estates.

This agent, who has made a land purchase for English capitalists in Mississippi, was compelled to go to that state, and decided to pass through Oglethorpe to see Sir Eugene Drake, and to provide him with proofs of his real title and fortune, which proofs he has in pos

Sir Eugene Drake is an unpretentious Georgia farmer. He is honest, industrious and aving. He has two daughters and two sons, the former having been as well educated as the limited means of the sturdy husbandman would permit. Sir Eugene enjoys the confidence of all his fellow-citizens, and scores of friends will be proud of his good

The Drake estate in England is a grand one Besides the realty and title there is in cash and ecurities a fortune deposited in the Bank of England that would astonish Vanderbilt or Rockafeller. The estate has been accumula ing for years—scores of years—and as stated, is a most princely one. Mr. Drake is today probably the richest man in the republic.

The Drake family in the United States is very large, but in this instance the fortune must go with the title, and no one will jointly share the fortune with Sir Eugene. Mr. Benjamin Yarrington, a popular young man resident in Augusta, and his brother, Mr. Wallace Yarrington, of the staff of The Columbia Record, are direct descendants of Sir Francis Drake, whose estate is involved in this story.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 17 .- [Special.]-A strange thing happened near Clarke's bridge recently. While a fishing party was out on the river, a small cyclone passed within a few hundred yards of them, snapping off the large trees that were in its path like pipe stems. It was not over fifty yards wide, and only seemed to touch the ground for short distance on the side of a small mountain at the base of which the party was standing, It then passed on with a roaring noise at considerable elevation about the ground. It was a remarkable phenomenon, as the day had been remarkably bright and calm, and the come was so small that it attracted attention.

The American Way.

The leading northern republican dailies are expressing their gratification over the president's pleasant reception in the south.

Our contemporaries agree with The Philadelphia Inquirer that there is no doubt about the heartiness of the greeting extended by the south to the distinguished visitor. They dwell upon the decorations at Chattanooga, the thunderous cannon train at Atlanta, the numerous invitations from cities not included in the itinerary, and after complimenting the loyalty of our people, they remark that our reception of the president has done more than almost anything else possibly could to convince the north that the south is back in the union to stav.

We trust that our northern brethren are not surprised to find the south coming to the front in her old-fashloned, warm-hearted way when the chief magistrate of the republic pays her a visit. If the southern people are anything, they are thoroughly American, and they do not allow political differences to stand in the way when it is a question of paying due deference and honor to the republic, its flag or its president. When the president comes among us to view our progress in material development, bearing with him the congratulations and good wishes of the north and west, it is natural that the high-minded people who sent through the silver tongue of their Grady a message of peace and good will to the north that is still ringing throughout the land, should readily respond in the proper spirit.

It is the American way, and the south is American or nothing.

From Virginia to Texas President Harrison speeds on his way amid the booming of cannon and the ringing of bells, with not a single incident to mar the pleasure of his trip.

From first to last only two discordant notes have been sounded-one by The New York Mail and Express and the other by The Charleston News and Courier. Each paper represents a class of irreconcilables, and neither represents the public opinion of its section. The News and Courier contents itself with roundly denying the sincerity of both the president and the people who have welcomed him. The Mail and Express is more enterprising. It sends a special correspondent a day in advance of the president to misrepresent the cities along the line of route. According to this paper and its correspondent, Atlanta did not decorate because she feared a negro aprising, and the statement is also made that everything was perfunctory and formal. And yet even this partisan and malicious report lets some of the truth leak out. It predicted in advance that Mr. Harrison would be pleased with his greeting in Atlanta, and intimated that the younger members of the party, including Russell Harrison and his wife, would have a taste of true southern hospitality in a social way.

But one or two cranky newspapers are not worth considering on such an oceasion. The president, since he crossed the Potomac, has found himself surrounded by loyal Americans, and his environment has been so thoroughly national that he has forgotten that he is in a strange

There is nothing surprising in all this. The south has contributed more to the astablishment and government of the union than any other section. She is in at to stay, and there is no provincial nonsense about her. She is American to

Thoughts on a Contemporary.

We have frequently observed of late growing tendency on the part of the es-teemed Charleston News and Courier to arder matters over a very wide territory. In a large and generous way it seems to be willing to take charge of affairs throughout the south, and fetch them under a censorship, which is described on the programme as both benign and influential. Nothing could oe simpler or more pleasing than the maniion of this disposition on the part of our esteemed contemporary, but there seems to be a hitch somewhere. Circumstances do op into the places assigned to them.

of perverseness pop up where they are least expected, and unknown voices cry, "helio!" in the depths of the woods. There is trouble with Marthasville and the silver question, and the people go their several ways and refuse to listen.

Naturally, our esteemed Charleston con emporary is inclined to fret over the situation, and it is for this reason we desire to press on its attention a morsel of consolation coupled with a humble but well-meant suggestion. Marthasville—healthy and growing maid as she is! -- was perverse from her infancy, given over to an individuality alto gether unique. As for the silver question that is in the hands of the people, and can be suppressed neither by editors nor by politicians. This is the consolation we have to Our suggestion we propose to put forward as delicately as possible. It is this: that our esteemed Charleston contemporary, instead of making a futile attempt to order affairs all over the south-instead of trying to reform Marthasville or to smother the silver question-turn its attention to the condition of the democratic party within the borders of South Carolina, and lend its powerful in fluence to strengthening the organization. We do not lightly offer this suggestion. There seems to be a necessity in South Caro lina for unremitting work on the part of the democratic editors. According to our specia dispatch from Charleston yesterday a singular and deplorable disintegration is going or in the democratic party of South Carolina. We are told that a number of leading white citizens, who were such straightout democrats that they would not affiliate with the democratic farmers, have gone into the republican party: and it is even hinted that there is danger of a stampede of this element from the democratic organization.

The News and Courier, we believe, was in sympathy with the straightout movement in its inception. This early sympathy ought to give it great influence in warning the people of South Carolina of the danger that is incurred when prominent democrats go over to the negro party. If the symptoms are such as described in our dispatch, our esteemed Charleston contemporary has a very interesting campaign before it. And while it is carrying on this campaign, Marthasville, sympathetic now as ever, will bloom in beauty on the Blue Ridge foothills, and the silver issue will loom and shine like a star of the morning.

The South in History.

There is so much indifference among our people-such an utter lack of interest concerning matters of southern history, that it is difficult to obtain a hearing when the subject comes up.

Fortunately, Mr. Thomas Nelson Page had a sympathetic audience at Louisville the other day, when he spoke before the alumni of the University of Virginia. The speaker declared that no satisfactory history of the south had ever been published. On the other hand, the civilized world has been flooded with publications holding our people up as the descendants of convicts, as slave eaters, and as the authors of atrocious cruelties at Andersonville and Libby prison. Even so-called impartial cyclopedias published abroad have done us great injustice. Mr. Page said:

The Encyclopedia Britannica is generally deemed a standard authority. It may be assumed to be as impartial on all American matters as any other authority. In its article on "American Literature," volume 1, page 719, it says of the south this: "The attractive culture of the south has been limited in extent and degree. The hot-Bouse been limited in extent and degree. The hot-hous fruit of wealth and leisure, it has never struck its roots deeply into native soil. Since the revolu-tionary days when Virginia was the nurse of en, the few thinkers of America, born south of Mason and Dixon's line, outnumbered by those belonging to the single state of Massa-chusetts, have commonly emigrated to New York or Boston in search of a university training. In the world of letters, at least, the southern states have shone by reflected light; nor is it too much to say that mainly by their connection with the north, the Carolinas have been saved from; sinking to the level of Mexico or the Antilles."

Think of this: this of the section that has made manded her armies and navies, doubled her erritory, created her greatness. And yet this work has been sold in the south to the extent of thousands of copies Of course Mr. Page could not in his brief speech correct all the false history in print, nor could he tell the story of the south's progress, but he took occasion to make it very plain that New England originated the secession doctrine, that her statesmen several times conspired together to break up the union, and that the north threatened to secede in 1808, in 1812-15, in 1819-20, and as late as the annexation of Texas and the acquisition of California and New Mexico. But it is only here and there that a voice is raised in defense of the truth of history. Crushed under the accumulating burdens of falsehood, the south goes on making history without encouraging her sons to write it. Perhaps we have no right to expect any thing better. Instead of rejecting the Britannica, when it deliberately states that the Carolinas have been saved mainly by their connection with the north from sink ing to the level of Mexico, we purchase the work and consult it as authority.

From The Kansas City Times. The demand for the free coinage of silver is daily shown to be of increasing strength throughout all sections of the country, excent in the single one where the gold owners hav entrenched themselves. Evidence accumulate with suggestive rapidity that the people of the producing sections are resolved up forcement of their demand.

In defining his position with reference to nestions of national concern the new senaor from Kansas announces his intention of aboring for the accomplishment of those things which the farmers of Kansas persist ently demand. "We must restore silver in this part of the commercial world to a standard with gold." The statement is Senator Kelley's, and the first commercial congress greets it with applause. The legislatures of a dozen agricultural states, from the soil of which never ounce of silver was taken, enforced to action by the irresistible pressure of the people within the last few months have spoken the farmers of Georgia and the farmers of Kansas now speak. "We demand the free coil age of silver and we demand a reduction of tariff." From the east come naturally enough such ungracious responses as that which Charles Francis Adams sends in acknowledgment of an invitation to attend ial congress now in session in this city. He fully recognizes the inconvenience as well as the hardship of the hardship of the present situation, "but I do not believe hat any action, except individual action, is necessary for a remedy." There is not an owner of gold or a "protected" manufacturer but will clap his hands to that utterance. The people of the west and the south think differntly. They hold the power in ands and need but have the courage hands and need but have the courage to act in accordance with their convictions. AGAINST THE CENTRAL BAILBOAD

By an Augusta Stockholder Against the Issue of Bonds Recently Ordered. , His Grounds of Complaint.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 17.—[Special.]—An junction suit by Ridgeway Smith, of Auusta, to prevent the Central Railroad and empany of Georgia, from issuing $13,000,000 worth of bonds and executing mortgage for their payment to the Central Trust Company, of New York, was filed in the Chatham superior court today, and Smith owns 100 shares of Central stock. He alleges that the board of directors has executed th that the board of directors has executed the bonds and mortgages without authority, and in contravention of the provisions of their charter. The bonds are still in the possessien and control of the directors, to the best of Smith's belief, but, as the mortgage or deed of trust has been delivered to the Central Trust Company, it is the intention of the railroad to also place the bonds, which he asks to be The petitioner claims that no amendment to the charter or any act of the legislature gives the power to the Central railroad to execute the mortgage or enter into any such contract.

Mr. Smith says that should the bonds be sold it will place a debt upon the railroad far in excess of its capital, which is $7,500,000, and that it would smouth with other debts of the that it would amount, with other debts of the company now existing, to more than double the capital.

the capital.

This fact, Mr. Smith alleges, will lower the value of his property as a shareholder, if it does not entirely destroy it, and possibly render him individually liable, at least, to a lawsuit for his pro rata share of the debts of the company. The contemplated action of the railpany. The contemplated action of road, he claims, will render its charter liable

The complainant alleges that he has demanded of the board of directors that they should not in any way dispose of the bonds or create any debt, but should cancel the same, as they are a cloud on the title of the company, but they have refused to comply with his demand.

Judge Falligant, after hearing the petition, passed an order requiring the Central Railroad and Banking Company and the Central Trust Company, of New York, to show cause, on April 25th, why the injunction should not be granted.

The mortgage complained of was executed pril 1, 1890, by President Alexander and

ETCHED AND SKETCHED.

An interesting incident in connection with President Harrison's visit to Atlanta was his eeting with Mr. George Cook, of Boston, Mass. The grandfather of Mr. Cook was the Captain Cook who saved the life of General William Henry Harrison from the Indians at the battle of Tippecanoe. Mr. George Cook is president of the celebrated Hallett & Davis piano works of Boston, and with Mrs. Cook has been spend ing a few days with Governor Bullock. Mr. Cook went up the road on the invita-tion of Mayor Hemphill to meet President Harrison. The president was much gratified to meet Mr. Cook, and the two gentlemen enjoyed a pleasant chat over the historical its of their respective grandfathers.

GEORGIA PRESS GOSSIP.

The responsive service inaugurated by Dr. Lee, of this city, is variously discussed by the Georgia editors. Where the latter are of the Methodist persuasion they do not approve it, the opinion being that, while the service is impressive, the whole tendency of the Methodist communion has been away from, rather than towards, a set form of worship. Some of the good hyethers delars that worship. Some of the good brethren declare that they would never feel like shouting out in meeting if they had to do so by rule.

The truth of the matter is, the efforts of the editor of The Republic to defeat Mr. Crisp for the speakership have disgusted the leaders of the party in all sections of the country, and the result is, Mr. Crisp's candidacy for the position is stronger today than it has ever been, and his splendid record is being laid before the people with excellent effect by his colleagues in congress, who are determined that he shall not be done a The fact of the matter is, the distinguished

Georgian in the battle for tariff reform has always been in the front rank, and as Cor Outhwaite, of Ohio, truly says, it was Crisp wh made one of the most powerful and convincing arguments in favor of a reduction of the tariff that was ever heard on the floor of the fifty that was ever heard on the noor of the high-first congress, and that he was always in the lead in the fight against the McKinley bill. The general impression is that The Republic is either misinformed as to the record of Mr. Crisp on the tariff question, or that it has a favorite for the ship and is trying to prejudice the can dacy of that gentleman by leading the democrati-congressmen-elect in the western states to be lieve that he is not sound on the tariff question. There is not a truer or more loyal democrat in There is not a truer or more loyal democrat in congress than Mr. Crisp, or one who is better equipped to be the speaker of the house, and the fact that he is an earnest advocate of the reform of the tariff is evidenced by the hearty support for the speakership which he is receiving from The Boston Herald and other leading independent journals of the east which have taken issue with the republicans on the tariff question. Mr. Crisp's speech in Boston in favor of a reduction of the tariff, won for him a host of friends in New England, and helped the democrats of Massachusetts to victory last crat in

A REQUISITION ISSUED PESTER DAY FOR DAN HALL

He Is Wanted Here on a Charge of Assau and Battery—A Story on Commissioner Nesbitt—Widows' Pensions.

A requisition upon the governor of North Carolina was issued yesterday by Governor Northen for Dan Hall, now in jail at Hender assault and battery. This city court paper explains the matter:

State of Georgia, Fulton County, City of At lanta—I, J. T. Hornesby, in the name and behalf of the citizens of Georgia, charge and accuse Dan Hall of the county and state aforesaid, with the effense of misdemeanor, for that said Dan Hall in the county aforesaid, on the 11th day of Novem-ber in the year 1890, did make an assault upon the person of one J. T. Hornesby and did then and there unlawfully beat him, contrary to the laws of said state, the peace, good order, and dignity December term, 1890.

J. T. HORNESBY, Prosecutor. F. M. O'Bryan, Solicitor." City Court of Atlanta.

Mr. Hall was put under bond here in the

It seems that, under the laws of North Care lina, Mr. Hall, upon making a pauper affi-davit, will be released from jail on the 20th. It is the intention of the Georgia authorities to serve this warrant, and bring Mr. Hall home before another North Carolina warrant can be

Mr. Frank Arnold, who was appointed the agent of Georgia to receive Mr. Hall and to bring him home, is already in North Carolina with the requisition.

Already 5,300 blanks have been furnished for widows' pensions.

Already 850 applications have been "passe up" as clearly entitled to pensions, and appliions are pouring in every day. Of the whole number of applications re ceived, net more than 3 or 4 per cent have been rejected, and only about 10 per cent Sockless Bob Nesbitt

It is no longer "Hon. R. T. Nesbitt," but plain "Sockless Bob Nesbitt," commission

The story is a good one. The forenoon before President Harrison arrived in Atlanta, there was a meeting of the statehouse officers to consult about his re-Commissioner Nesbitt was present.

Finally the question was asked, what we the statehouse officers to wear? Somebody suggested "evening dress, of "Bob," said Commissioner Nesbitt, address ing the state treasurer, "does that mean a spike-tail coat?' "Yes," said Treasurer Hardeman

Whereupon Commissioner Nesbitt spoke ou He didn't have a spike-tail in meeting. He didn't have a spike-tail coat, and if that point was insisted upon he wouldn't be present.

It seems that nearly all the other statehous boat with Commissioner Nesbitt. So the spike-tail coat proposition was voted down. Then the matter of foot-wear was discuss

"Bob," he whispered, confidentially, "can I tell you semething?' 'Course," said the treasurer.

"Swear you won't tell?"

"Well, Bob-old boy-can you loan me pair of socks?" Whitlock's Case

The case of M. T. Whitlock has been at racting quite a lot of attention, and the cir sumlocution office is disturbed.

single day of his sentence. The statement that he had served two years-a statement made in THE CONSTITUTION four or five days ago—is incorrect. Mr. Whitlock himself thought that he had been serving his sentence and had only eight years more to serve.

But that was a mistake, and in fact the exact status of the case is not clear. It is agreed that just after Mr. Whitlock was sentenced a motion for a new trial was Then, pending the hearing of this motion Judge Clark issued an order allowing Whit-

The motion for a new trial has never been argued.

Judge Clark stated to the governor yesterday that the motion was still in such a condition that it might be pushed.

Whereupon the governor took the position that it would be as improper for him to interfere now as it would have been for him to interfere before he had been tried the first time; that the character of the offense and its pur ishment was yet to be settled by a court, and to interfere now would be to pardon or commute the sentence of a man before he had ever been found guilty.

But Judge Anderson says that the original motion is not pending, in any proper sense of the term. He says that it has been abandoned. Meanwhile Whitlock is still at his home under the original order of Judge Clark.

Whitlock wants a pardon—the governor won't act unless the judge and soliciton recommend—the judge and solicitor won't recommend unless the principal physician of the penitentiary makes an examination and favorable report—the principal physician won't make an examination and favorable report because Whitlock is not in the penitentiary.

It goes in a circle. It's nobody's business. It amounts to about this—that Whitlock must go to the penitentiary before the governor can think of pardoning him.

"He's out of gunshot, so far as I am concerned," said the governor yesterday.

The removal to the penitentiary, it is believed, would kill Whitlock. He is hardly alive now. So that he must die a convict be-fore his plea—that he be saved from dying a convict—can be considered officially. Meantime, as it seems to be nobody's business, Whitlock is still at his home on Pulliam It seems to be very doubtful if the governor will pardon Whitlock, even if he should go on to the penitentiary. Captain Ellis, accompanied by Mrs. Whitlock, called upon the governor a day or two ago. Captain Ellis pleaded for Whitlock's wife and only child. "Was the other man married?" asked the governor.

"Yes," said Captain Ellis.

"Had he a family?"
"One child," said Captain Ellis. Captain Ellis had pictured the grief and hame of Whitlock's wife and child—the governor grew eloquent as he pictured the other wife and child.

Mrs. Whitlock heard it all.

Of course the governor has not said he would refuse to pardon Whitlock from the penitentiary, for he has not considered the merits of

Meanwhile, it's nobody's business.

FROM OUR NOTEBOOKS.

For Foor Mehaffey.—The two stoves which are to be raffled for poor Mehaffey, the paralyzed drummer, now in the county almshouse, will be disposed of tonight at Legge & Peacock's drug store. If you have a chance, be on hand; if not, go get a chance and be there too.

His Brother Dead.—Mr. T. M. Long, well known among the locomotive firemen, received a telegram yesterday from Denver informing him of the death of his brother, who has been working for the Denver and Rio Grande railroad for some time. Typhoid fever was the cause of death. The body was shipped to Atlanta last night.

To Meet Monday.—The general council will meet in regular session next Monday afternoon. So far nothing of much importance has been pro-grammed for the meeting.

The Police Committee.—The police committee of the general council, Mr. King, Mr. Woodward and Mr. Tye, met yesterday. No question of it-quor was before the committee. The committee decided to grant Henry Moore a license for a boothisch stand at the committee.

Bad Beggars .- Citizens in all parts of the city Bad Beggars.—Citizens in all parts of the city are being worried very much by appeals for assistance in the form of notes presented by small boys. Yesterday two of these notes were handed to Captain Couch. One was signed by Mrs. Martin and the other by Mrs. Johnson, the address of one being on Rhodes street and the other on Fourth

Both letters were written in the same handwriting, and their contents were the same in sub-stance. Inquiries developed that no Mrs. Martin could be found in the locality given, and that Mrs. Johnson was also a myth. The letter stated that the writer was sick, that she was a sewing woman, and that if the lady of the house would send her something to eat or wear she would repay her in sewing when she became well enough. The parties who gave the letters to Captain Couch stated that the boy ran away when it was presented.

It is evidently the work of some undeserving person, and Captain Couch wants to put the pub-

The Organ Builder .- Mr. R. E. Pilcher, o Louisville, Ky., was in the city again yesterday, en route north, having just returned from a business trip to Macon, Savannah and Augusta in the interest of his firm. The large organ recently placed in the Church of the Immaculate Conception is from the Louisville house.

Visiting Atlanta.-Dr. H. C. Wynn, of Detroit, is in the city for a few days. Dr. Wynn is one of the most celebrated surgeons of the northwest and is professor of surgery in the Michigan Col-lege of Medicine. During his stay in the city the doctor is the guest of Dr. Harry Huzza.

Wanted No Foolishness .- He was from Camp bell county, and came to the city to see a dentist Swaggering into the office of Dr. Holland yesterday, this typical countryman said, on meeting the gentlemanly Dr. Frank Holland: "Now, see har, dock, old boy, I'm somethin' ov a toothpuller myself."

"You are?" was the polite inquiry.
"I beswitched of I haint," he continued, "and "I beswitched er I naint," he continued, "and ef, yer do any cobbler work on my mouth I'll be def I pay you a cent. I jes' come up here because I had no notion of lettin' them thar blacksmiths down thar in my beat butcher me—no siree!" and the countryman frothed with rage as Eyeing the surroundings with curious interest, he finally seated himself in the dental chair, and looking at Dr. Holland savagely, said: "Now dector, you are a clever-looking fellow, and I don't want to hurt you, but I'll be — if thar is to be any foolishness in this h'ar business. Ef yer can pull

"Well, be quet sir," auavely spoke the dentist, "and I'll see what can be done for you." "Now, understand," resumed the countryman, "I haint nuthin' ov a dead beat, and am willin' to pay yer anything yer charge, that is, in fairness, ef yer git the thing out, for it hurts like merry thunder, but ef she don't come when yer put them thar tricks on her, I tell yer to look out."

Professor Lane at West End.—At the West End academy last night, Professor Charles Lane delivered his celebrated lecture on the "History and Analysis of Laughter."

The lecturer was introduced by Colonel Malcolm Johnston in a neat speech, and then he pro-ceeded to entertain the large and appreciative audience present.

The proceeds were large and the academy library fund, for whose benefit the affair was held, rebeived a most substantial addition. The Suspended Cable Road .- All the working drawings for the suspended cable street railway have been completed, and it is understood that the building of the line will be commenced in a few days. A Deserter.—Private Richardson, of Company C., Fourth Artillery, stationed at McPherson Barracks is reported from the post as having deserted on April 3d last.

A description of Richardson was read out to the police yesterday. They are ordered to be on the lookout for him.

Scott at DeGive's.

Both Scott Thornton and Atlanta theater-goers are eagerly looking forward to the production of "Richelieu" at DeGive's Monday night—Scott because he feels confident of success, and the people because they look forward to an enjoyable because he least they look forward to an evening.

Everything is in seadiness for the play, and when the curtain rolls up a large audience will greet the rising young actor.

From the way seats are selling at present this will doubtless be the case.

The Troup County Sunday Schools.

IAGRANGE, Ga., April 17.—[Special.]—The semi-annual meeting of the County Sunday School Association took place in LaGrange, at the Presbyterian church, last Wednesday. Large numbers of delegates were present and the accounts of Sunday school work in the county were very encouraging. Captain J. W. F. Little, of West Point, the efficient president, had done all possible to make the meeting a success, and his efforts did not prove fruitless. Splendid addresses were made during the day and evening sessions.

This society was founded by Major W. F. Slaton when he was principal of the Boys' High school, seventeen years ago, and has been perpetuated by those who have followed him.

It includes all the young gentlemen who attend the high school, and the alumni of the "A. L. and D." are simply legion.

The exercises occurred in Browning hall, and it was the first public celebration ever clean by the society on its anniversary.

given by the society on its anniversary. The hall was packed and jammed by a select and appreciative audience, including all the young ladies from the Girls' High school; Major W. F. Slaton, superintendent of the public schools; Mr. A. L. Kontz, Mr. Sam Inman, Mr. D. A. Beatie and Colonel W. S.

"Resolved, That Hamlet Was Insane."

The affirmative was well represented by Sol N. Clarke, who delivered a very striking and original address, arguing the insanity of Shakespeare's great hero, the melancholy prince of Denmark.

Halcombe Bacon followed in a most effective speech for the negative in refutation of the idea that Hamlet was insane.

Cecil Alexander came next for the affirmative. He is a very graceful speaker, and his

In response to an encore from the audience that was simply irresistible, the song, "A Game of Poker," was most enjoyably rendered.

B. N. Thornton, one of the critics, then read his criticism, which was full of hits on the speeches of the contestants in the Hamlet debate.

Paul L. Fleming, the other critic, concluded the exercises with his criticism, which was surprisingly amusing, full of cuts on one hand and compliments on the other, which kept the audience in a roar, and President Turner's gavel was rattling incessantly to preserve order.

A letter from Mr. Clark Howell was read, expressing his deep regret that he was unable to attend the aniversary exercises of the society of which he was president twelve years ago, and conveying to the members of the society his heartiest sympathy in every movement to increase its scope of usefulness.

Short speeches were made by Major Slaton, Mr. Kontz, Mr. Inman, Mr. King and Dr. Turner, all full of compliments and encouraging remarks for the young gentlemen of the Alciphronian Society.

The occasion was one which will form one of the brightest pages in the history of this society, the full measure of the usefulness of which has never been so fully appreciated as it was yesterday, when the public had the benefit of a public demonstration of its worth and work.

A STORY OF SENATOR PURSE. It Was by His Efforts the Sisters of Mercy Were Chartered.

From The Savannah Times.

As a legal body in Georgia the Roman Catholic church has had but forty years' existence, and if it had not been for the efforts of Senator Thomas Purse, father of Captain D. G. Purse, it is probable the first charter granted to any of its orders would have been dated some years subsequent to 1850.

Purse, father of Captain D. G. Furse, it is probable the first charter granted to any of its orders would have been dated some years subsequent to 1850.

Senator Purse believed in thorough religious freedom, and was not afraid to advocate it. As much cannot be said of many of his contemporaries in public life. Some of the strongest among them were absolutely afraid to fellow in hi dauntless footsteps.

This is well shone in an article from the pen of Judge R. H. Clark, of Atlanta, written soon after the death of Senator Purse. Its contents will probably be in the nature of a revelation to many of the Savannahians of today, who cannot conceive of the bitterness with which the Roman Catholic church was regarded in a large section of Georgia prior to the war, and of the bravery required in a public man to speak in its defense.

Said Judge Clark: "The honors paid by your city (Savannah) and citizens to Hon. Thomas Puse are gratifying to his friends throughout Georgia. There is one incident in his career as state senator which his death brings to mind, and is very little, if any, known.

"It was while he was in the legislature that the law was passed incorporating The Sisters of Mercy.' It will seem strange to announce now, and yet it is true, that the bill met with strong and flerce opposition. Had it not been for Mr. Purse's sound logic and the personal influence he wielded, it would have been present on that occasion and seen the zeal and ability he exhibited in their behalf as a portion of his constituents, whose welfare and interests he felt bound to sustain. In the journal of the senate, 1849-50, pages 110 and 111, will be Jound the full proceedings.

"Form an inspection of the vote it will appear that several members of the senate, and they of the most prominent sort, found it convenient not to vote, and from this one can judge of the importance of the question and the doubtful result."

Columbus, Ga., April 17.—[Special.]—For several days past the police have reported numerous moccasin snakes crawling across lower Broad street. As many as a dozen have been seen in the street. Where they come from is not known, as the river is some distance off, and no snakes have been seen about the grass on this street before. Belated roysterers avoid that certifor now.

NO LIME IN Royal Baking Powder

The ROYAL BAKING POWDER is made from Cream of Tartar specially refined and prepared for its use by patent processes by which the Tartrate of Lime is totally eliminated.

This highly important result has been attained only with great care, labor and expense. In money alone a half a million dollars has been invested in patents. machinery and appliances by which the crude Cream of Tartar, being procured direct from the wine districts of Europe, and subjected in this country to these exclusive processes, is rendered entirely free, not only from the objectionable Tartrate of Lime, but from other foreign substances.

This adds greatly to the cost of manufacturing ROYAL BAKING POWDER; but, as all its other ingredients are selected and prepared with the same precise care, and regardless of labor or expense, an article is produced that is entirely free from any extraneous substance, and pure in all respects. The ROYAL contains no ingredients except those certified by the most eminent chemists necessary to make a pure, wholesome and perfect Baking Powder.

It costs more to manufacture the Royal Baking Powder than any other; but it is, as shown by chemical analysis, the only "absolutely pure" Baking Powder made.

band a Surprise. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 17 .- [Special.] -Mrs. A. W. Bentley arrived on the scene today. About three weeks since her husband, who keeps a news stand under the Florence hotel, and his pretty assistant, were arrested on the adultery. It had previously been supposed that they were man and wife, and it was a great sensation. The young woman gave her name as Sarah Smith, and the two have since pursued the even tenor of their way at the news stand.

Mrs. Bentley came all the way from St. Louis yesterday, and registered at the hotel as Mrs. I. Fay, of Kansas City. Today she revealed herself, and called at the news stand. She was not welcome, and for the second time the eden was disturbed. She laid violent hands on Miss Sarah Smith, and the two were having it out them and there, when officers interfered. Miss Sarah then disappeared and Mrs. Bentley remained in charge of the fort, and of Mr. Bentley. She says she was wealthy when Bentley married her, that he spent it and left. He has since been to see her, the last time a few months since. He talked poverty, but her first intimation of the real state of the case were the telegrams in the papers telling of his arrest. She is still holding interviews with her husband, but refuses to be interviewed herself. What step she will take is not known, but report says she wants financial relief.

The box is still as good as new. Mr. Bevis also has a tin canteen that he prizes very highly, as it no doubt saved his life near Peters burg on May 4, 1864, when a ball from the enemy bored its way through the canteen and made a slight wound on his person. Had it not been for the canteen the ball likely would

HIS IRISH POTATOES.

The Queer Discovery Made by a Farmer

RUTLEDGE, Ga., April 17.-[Special.]-bout the last of February Mr. W. F. Streeter planted his Irish potatoes, and one day this week, thinking it time they were coming up, he decided to grapple into the hills to see if they had rotted. To his utter surprise he found that the potatoes he had planted were perfectly sound, but with no signs of a sprout to indicate that they would ever come up. But roots had put out, and a perfect cluster of young potatoes were there, and were large enough to use. Mr. Streeter says that they have already had one meal of them, and expects a fine crop of potatoes; but would be surprised to see any of them coming up.

He is apparently pledged to President Harrison not to do so, and his health is positively stated, by those who profess to know shout it, as a bar to his so doing. GREENVILLE, S. C., April 17.—[Special.]—A negro named John Crews was shot and instantly killed by a white man named Jame Holliday at the sawmill of J. D. Kelly in Pickens county, near Central, S. C., on

Crews had rented the mill from Mr. Kelly, he found the negro in possession, and when he stated the object of his visit and produced the order from Mr. Kelly for the mill, the negro refused to deliver it, and growing angry, began abusing Mr. Holliday, and endeavored to remove the governor from the engine, intending to disable it and prevent its use. Mr. Holliday requested him to desist, whereupon the negro threw a wrench at him, and was about to throw one of the governor balls, when Mr. Holliday fired the contents of a double-barreled shotgun loaded with buckshot at the negro, killing him instantly. A coroner's inquest rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide. Mr. Holliday surrendered himself to the

Danielsville, Ga., April 17.—[Special.]—Mr. Mark Morehead, a brother of John Morehead, who was arrested for shooting a tramp near Center, is on the warpath. That is, he is angry with the persons who have sent out reports about the shooting, which reports, he says, have done his brother great injustice. In a card to The Danielsville Monitor Mark gives the following account of the difficulty:

"My brother, John Morehead, and a man by the name of Stone, and a tramp named Bidridge, met in the road about two miles above Center. The tramp was about as ragged as the law of decency allows a man to go. He was barefooted and almost bareheaded, and had nothing except a pistol, which he offered to put up against its value in money. John and Stone agreed, and the game commenced. The tramp lost, but refused to give up whathe had staked, threatening to shoot the first man who attempted to take it from him. John started, and the fellow fired, but missed. As quick as possible my brother drew his pistol and commenced shooting. His first shot broke the tramp's right arm, which caused him to drop his gun, and Mr. Stone picked it up.

"That was the whole affray. The tramp had no money, while John had $270 in eash. Does it look reasonable that he would rob a man for 54 cents, with that much money in his pocket? The fellow swore out warrants against them, and afterwards wanted to compromise the case for $200. The sheriff investigated the matter, and refused to go to Athens after my brother."

Morehead says that the people of Center did not like them, because their father had succeeded so much better than they had, and that he believed they influenced Eldridge to swear out the warrants.

THE TALK OF BATES

WILL ENGAGE THE ATTENTION OF THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY POOL.

the Combination of Millmen-They Want Legislation to Smash It.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 17.—[Special.]—On next Wednesday the rate committee of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association meets at the DeSoto. There will be about forty members present.

The timbermen of the state are disturbed over the combination of the mill men. An owner of timber land said today that the timber men would try to break up the pool. He called it a trust, and spoke with strong emphasis about getting the legislature to investigate and smash it. He said that he had consulted a lawyer, and was sure that the general assembly could and would interfere. When asked the ground of his opposition to the new association he said:

"The mill owners are going to force the prices of timber down. I sold some rafts at Darien the other day, and did not get near as much for my logs as I did last year. The mills will not bid against each other. They have certain days for buying, and agree on the prices, and the figures are low too."

"Why don't you owners of the timber form a trust? The mills must have logs, and if the timber men go into a trust, you can probably get your own prices."

To this the timber owner replied that there are so many who have logs to sell that it is impossible to get them in a combination. "Besides," said he, "what can a man do when he gets to Darien, say with a rait? He has to sell, and he has to take what is offered."

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Reviewed by Dun & Co.-Fluctuations of NEW YORK, April 17 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: With better weather, there is a visible improvement in trade and collections, and while it is but slight as yet, the outlook for the future is generally regarded as encouraging. Crop prospects con tinue excellent, there is less monetary pressure at points where some stringency has existed, and in the chief industries some improvement and in the chief industries some improvement in demand appears. The volume of trade con-tinues nearly as large in aggregate value as it was a year ago, some decrease in quantities of important products being balanced by an ad-vance in the level of prices, which were nearly 15 per cent higher than a year ago, April 1st, and is still more than 15 per cent higher. SHRINKAGE IN THE IRON TRADE.

The iron trade shows a greater shrinkage than any other, the decrease in charcoal iron production in March having been 1,895 tons, and in all iron with corrections in the coke output, 21,363 tons. The output is 65,311 tons, or 36.6 per cent lower than a year ago. There is seen a better demand for finished products, especially for structural iron and rails, and 30,000 tons of rails have been sold during the week, making orders for the year thus far about 550,000 tons.

Spinners' takings of cotton continue slightly greater than a year ago, with exports very much larger. Wool is dull, and until the new clip comes forward, much activity is not to be expected. The demand is remarkably strong for dress goods, but still disappointing for men's wear woolens.

A FAIR GROCERY TRADE. The grocery trade at Philadelphia is only fair; the glass trade is quiet, and the demand for dry goods medium, but the outlook for paints is better, and the hardware trade i larger than at this season for two years though at low prices. In nearly all trades these col-lections are slow. Some kinds of finished iron at Pittsburg are weaker, but glass is un-changed. Business is improved at New Orleans

AN ADVANCE IN BREADSTUFFS. In the speculative markets there has been a general advance in breadstuffs, hogs and lard, a decline in oil, and no change in cotton and coffee. A larger export demand, and reports of scarcity abroad, have lifted wheat 2½ cents to $1.19\frac{1}{2}, with sales of $46,000,000 bushels here, and oats have risen 2 cents to $61\frac{1}{2}$ cents, and corn $5\frac{1}{2}$ cents to $82\frac{3}{2}$ cents on small sales. The actual scarcity of corn and oats makes an advance easy, but of wheat the receipts at western ports continue larger than a year ago, and exports, until very lately, have been much smaller. It is noteworthy that, in all winter wheat sections, the prospect is considered exceptionally good and the acreage is reported as largely increased. Raw sugar has yielded a shade this week, but all refined above granulated is a shade higher. to $1.192, with sales of 46,000,000 bushels here shade this week, but all refined above granulated is a shade higher.

With breadstuffs and vegetables unusually high and wool about the same as a year ago, cotton is much lower, drugs and chemicals lower, iron and its products and the range of manufactured products generally rather lower, notwithstanding an expansion of more than $90,000,000 in circulation during the year.

EXPORTS INCREASING. Exports of merchandise are increasing, and for two weeks at New York exceed last year's by 18 per cent. In March the exports of cotby 18 per cent. In March the exports of cotton, breadstuffs, provisions, cattle and petroleum from all the chief ports were in value $52,499,637, against $52,766,262 last year, indicating an increase in the aggregate of exports, while heavy imports of sugar raised the aggregate about $6,400,000 at New York alone above that of the same month last year. Probably the imports began to exceed exports in that month, and an outward movement of specie may be expected until the new crops come. But securities are well sustained. In spite of the apparent failure of the Western Traffic Association, and unless depression in these and heavy foreign realizing occur, the these and heavy foreign realizing occur, the outgo of gold need cause no disturbance. Failures of the week number 217. For the corresponding week of last year the figure was 181.

The April games in Jacksonville, St. Augustine and Macon have shown that the men are in excellent condition, and have profited by their April practice in the south. It is said that all of these steamers are running exceedingly heavy at present, particularly those northward bound, this being an unusually popular route for the thousands of northern tourists in Florids. Nothing is more delightful than the trip from New York to Savannah, and the success of the efforts of the Savannah, and the success of the efforts of the Ocean Steamsphip Company to make a perfect service is very highly appreciated by those who have been fortunate enough to be among the passengers on any of its several magnificent steamers.

So popular has it already become that it will mobably not be long before a daily service will but on between New York and Savannah. To General G. M. Sorrel, the general manager of the line, is due much of the striking popularity of the service, the development of which has been nothing less than marvelous. General Sorrel has for years given the matter his undivided attention, and has done what no other man in the south could have done in the improvement of the service to a degree of perfection which makes it incomparably the most magnificent coastwise steamship line in America, and without a superior in the world.

YOUR SUNDAY DINNER.

WHAT A VISIT TO THE MARKETS SHOWS.

Plenty of New Things, but Prices Pretty Steep as a Rule-What Can Be Bought, and the Prices That Prevail.

What will it cost? A tour among Atlanta's markets shows that for a moderate amount a meal can be pre-pared in harmony with ambrosia-food for the

In the first place there is any variety of

There is mullet for 8 cents and snappers for Trout, blue fish and sheephead, each 10 cents a pound. Spanish mackerel, lake salmon and catfish

Black fish and whiting, 35 cents a string. Pompano, 20 cents a pound. Herring, 20 to 25 cents a bunch. Florida perch, excellent, for 121 cents :

Shad, all the way from 20 to 80 cents. Oysters are disappearing—still to be obtained, however, for 30 cents a quart, standard; 40 ents, select; 50 cents for plants.

In the place of this, crabs and shrimps are just coming into season. As yet very dearthe former for 60 cents a dozen, the latter 35 cents a quart.

Do you want meats-fine Tennessee beef? If so, select from the following: Round steak, 15 cents a pound Porterhouse, 20 cents.

Tenderloin, 171 cents. Splendid rib roast, 15 to 18 cents. Mutton chops, rather steep at 20 cents. Pork, best steaks and roast, 121 to 15 cents Stew mutton and meat, 5 to 8 cents.

Mutton roast, varying from 15 to 18 cents. Then the different kinds of sausages, of pork and mixed, ranging from 10 cents to 15. But what particularly graces the markets just now are vegetables, plentiful and cheap, with some exceptions. This year the season somewhat late, and at present Florida is giving us our main supply.

Squashes and cabbages, for 5 cents each. Large tomatoes, 25 cents a quart. Lettuce, radishes, onions, carrots and parsley n abundance for 5 cents a bunch.

Fine new potatoes, 15 cents a quart. Old Irish potates, 60 cents a peck. Sweet potatoes, very scarce, 30 cents. Celery, 15 cents a stalk. Cucumbers, 10 cents as yet.

Excellent cauliflower, just in season, now 20 to 30 cents. Asparagus, now arriving, 20 cents a bunch. Peas, fresh in the market, 15 cents a quart. Beets, 10 cents a bunch. Beans at 20 cents.

Fruit is something of a scarcity-that is, good Apples, small and of medium quality only,

Oranges, steep at from 30 to 40 cents a dozen. Bananas, splendid ones, to be had for 20 and 5 cents a dozen. Malaga grapes, far from plentiful, 30 cents a Grape fruit, $1 to $1.25 a dozen. Lemons, 30 cents.

These comprise the general fruit market at

Eggs are liable to a drop, being now 20 cents.

Butter, the best for 35 cents to 45.
Game is altogether out of the market. The game laws are responsible for this.

Delicious straw berries are coming. Just now they bring 20 and 25 cents.

Fine spring chickens sell for 50 to 75 cents.

Ducks, 35 cents.

In a few days the new fruits and vegetables will be in greater abundance, and hence cheaper. cheaper.
Best of all—watermelons are coming.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON T.

About the World's Fair and the State Agri-Georgia and the world's fair—the committee of the Agricultural Society and the convention called by the governor.

"What of it?" Colonel Livingston was asked yesterday. "Will your committee step aside for the convention, or will they insist on having a separate scheme for the world's fair?"

"It's this way," said the colonel. "Let me begin at the beginning: "The committee on the Columbian exposition, appointed at Savannah, in accord with the suggestion offered by Colonel Waddell in his inaugural address, was called for consultation by me, as chairman, to meet in Atlanta on the 7th of April last.

"A quorum not responding, and a convention having been called by the governor, looking to the same object, for an carly day, it is a question whether the chairman should make another effort to convene the committee until after the convention referred to shall have "No clash should be allowable in a matter where the state of Georgia is so virtually interested. While Colonel Waddell deserves the thanks of the people of Georgia for calling attention the the propriety of an effort to have the state properly represented at the exposition he did but his duty to Georgia.

"It becomes every citizen of the state to lay down all prejudice or jealousy and come to the help of either the committee or the convention, and do all in his power for Georgia.

"This is no time to quibble over the question, whether the committee or the convention is the proper organization to move in this enterprise, and I suggest to the committee that there has no first group most will after that there be no elfort on our part until after that there be no effort on our part until after the convention called by the governor shall have decided upon the way and the means for having Georgia represented. "I do this for harmony and for Georgia, and I hope the president of the State Agricultural Society will concur in that view."

Continuing to Find the Services a Source of Good.

The interest in the revival services at Walker street church continues unabated.

The programme yesterdays was varied somewhat. Instead of the usual morning and what. Instead of the usual morning and afternoon sermons, experience meetings were held. At night Dr. Watson preached on "Duties of Christians," and as throughout the week enthused his hearers.

Yesterday Dr. Samuel Hunter, a well-known divine of Athens, arrived, and he will for the remainder of the meeting take an active interest in its work.

PARIS RETURNS.

HE SURRENDERS VOLUNTARILY TO DEPUTY MARSHAL DICKEY.

Story of His Escape from Fulto

Herschel C. Paris is again an inmate of the Fulton county jail.

It will be remembered that he walked out of the front door of the jail, a few Sundays ago, with a Bible in his hand, along with a party of young gentlemen who went there to conduct religious services.

The story of his escape was printed in these columns, and created a good deal of comm He was seen in his cell yesterday and told the

"It was just this way," said Paris. "I had frequently noticed that the jail officials took very little notice of those who came and went on errands of that sort. A happy thought struck me, that I would pose for once as a pious young fellow and take leg bail. I had a pretty decent suit of clothes, and I purchased an overcoat from a fellow prisoner. I went in the office and got shaved and looked about as well as any of the religious visitors after changing my clothes. "I occupied cell No. 8, and I remained in there until the services were concluded. As the young men came by in separate parties I took advantage of their appearance and slipped out of my cell.

"Nobody paid any attention to me. I knew none of the young men, nor did any of the party know me. Consequently, it was an easy matter for me to pass out, unobserved; and I walked very deliberately up the street and to the union passenger depot.

Boarding a Western and Atlantic train, I went to Marietta, where I got off and walked out the Marietta and North Georgia track for a few miles and boarded a passing freight, which took me to my home in Fannin county."

"Then there was no collusion between you and the visitors to the fail?" "None in the least. I thought up the scheme and put it into execution on my own account solely. Those young men are as innocent as angels of any complicity in my escape."
"How about those letters from your girl that ere found in your cell?"

"They were all right. By the way, they are my private and personal property, and I would like to have them back."

"How did you come to be rearrested?"
"I was not rearrested. There is a statement of that being circulated, but it is entirely false and without any foundation. I wrote to Colonel Darnell asking him to reduce my bond. His reply was that if I would give my-self up he would try and have the bond reduced to $1,000. I then conferred with Deputy Mar shall Dickey, and gave myself up.

"It was a fine game you played."
"Yes, it was a pretty bold thing," said Parls,

"Yes, it was a pretty bold thing," said Parls, whose face lighted up with a smile as the memory of the escapade recurred to him, "but I was tired of Fulton county jail and adopted the most quiet and sure method of securing my liberty."

"You saw your gir!?"

"Oh, yes, I saw her; but the report that I was apprehended while on my way to visit her is a lie, straight out. I submitted voluntarily, to Marshal Dickey, who will vouch for the truth of my statement."

"Will you give bond?"

"I have no doubt that I will. I have arranged the matter, and my principal object in escaping was to make this arrangement."

The time for the convention of this associa tion, which will be held in Augusta May 4th, to making the trip to Augusta a grand success will be acted upon. A report from the railroad committee, as to the progress in securing the 5,000-mile book, will be made.

After the meeting, the parlors will be thrown open, and the committee will place, at the disposal of every one present, a spread which will tempt the drummer, and, to say this, will tempt the drummer, and, to say this, makes it useless to give a bill of fare.

Every drummer in Atlanta is cordially invited to attend this meeting and inspect the lovely rooms, which are the property of the commercial men of Atlanta, and no doubt they will realize that by a united effort on their part the Southern Travelers' Association can be made a most important factor, not only as to carrying out those plans which will benefit the drummer, but carrying forward all movements with such force as will result in great benefit to these growing southern states of ours. Besides, entering into an agreement to keep up that electric progression that Atlanta drummers have been noted for.

Here goes for the largest number of drummers that ever left for any of, the association's meetings.

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasant to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The feeling on the street today was more condient on the duil side, as the opinion was that, notwithstanding the bad news of the last two days, there had been no concession in prices, even with the aid of hammering by the bears and realizations of profits by small holders. Today's market, therefore, started off with a most confident tone, and maintained a firm front throughout the day, although certain adverse influences were not without their effect in restraining the evident tendency of prices to advance. Under the circumstances, the forces at work on the market were very nearly balanced, and even in the most active stocks, like St. Paul, Atchison and Burlington, prices never got far away from that of the opening. There was purchasing of Northern Pacific preferred, and coal stocks were no longer a weak point in the list, a resolution not to reduce rates, but rather to fight the inter-state commerce commission, stiffening them up. The firm opening on London buying was followed by a reaction on selling by traders, but the demand from the west was not to be denied, and prices were generally lifted above the level of those of the opening, while the ductuations were confined within narrow limits, considering the amount of business done in the active stocks. The selling of long slocks by weak holders, on the fear of active money, again brought the list down in the afternoon, but support was forthcoming, and the reaction was kept within bounds, and further improvement was afterward made the market finally closed quiet and extensions. Cordage, Rock Island and Burlington were up large fractions, and some stocks were down silgatly. Sales listed were 211,000 shares; unlisted 18,000 shares.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, April 17—[Special.]—The phenomenal resistance displayed by the market to the depressing influences, while, would ordinarily cause a sharp deciline, appears to indicate a growing belief that prices have reached a plane where purchases are more prudent than sales. The orders from the south are almost wholly of a buying nature—this despite the heaviness of Liverpool, the wast volume of receipts, which show no diminution, and the absence of any encouragement save that of existing low prices and the possibilities which may affect the new crop adversely. Private cables from Liverpool are of the most discourating nature. The bulls are reported as doing their ulmost to support prices; and, as the purchases have been of a speculative character, they will not be held any decline, and the market is in a weak position.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 17-Today was one to be remembered by all who operated in the wheat pit. To those who "hit it" correctly it was Good Friday indeed, for there were unlimited opportunities for lending money on both sides of the market, while to those who guessed it wrong it was decided "Black Friday" which exhausted the ordinarily sale margins in a twinkling. The net result of the day's trading is an advance of 3½c. in the sult of the day's trading is an advance of 3½c. in the price of May option, of 2½c. in July as compared with the closing prices yesterday, the extreme high notch of the day and of the season being ½c. better than those figures. The boom was started near the close of the seasion yesterday afternoon when the Associated Press Paris cable quoting Siecle of that city, as saying that the French government would probably have to remove the import duty of 26 cents on wheat before next August, and that similar action, would probably next August, and that similar action would probably be taken by Germany. This was telegraphed by private wires here from New York just as the session was closwires here from New York just as the session was clos-ing, distorted, so as to say that this action was about to be taken. It caused a stampede of shorts, an ad-vance to 1.07% for May at the close. On the curb, after hours, the price went up to 1.09%. When the trading opened this morning 1.09 was the price. The cables showed that the foreign markets had responded to our advance. An enormous trade resulted The cables showed that the foreign markets had responded to our advance. An enormous trade resulted. The situation was bullish in the extreme and those who had bought heavily yesterday were in position to take their profits. The battle resulted between these realizing sellers on one side and the short and bull crowd who were not long, on the other. The victory temporarily was with the sellers. The vast quantity of long wheat was immediately dispose of. B. H. Hutchinson, George Smith, William Dunn and many of the customers of S. V. White & Co., W. G. McCormick & Co., Kennett, Hophins & Baldwin, and Farnum, besides a crowd of local scalpers sold right and left, and the price steadily worked down to 1.08%. This was the price steadily worked down to 1.08%. This was followed by a swell to 1.08%, and drop to 1.08%, followed followed by a swell to 1.08%, and drop to 1.08%, followed by an excited advance to 1.09%, which brought out the deluge of long wheat under which the price again settled to 1.08%, which latter point it had reached at 12 o'clock. July from 1.07% and 1.08 at the start declined to 1.06%, and advanced again to 1.07%, and declined once more to 1.06% and sold up to 1.07% at the same time that May was 1.09%, and once again worked back to 1.06%. In the meantime there were reports of impending financial troubles in Paris, the denial of yesterday's report that the French government would repeal the duties on wheat, and the fine weather as bearish induences. The bulls were fortified with the earish influences. The bulls were fortified with the bearish influences. The bulls were fortified with the Minneapolis message saying Pillsbury had advanced the prices of patent flour 40 cents per barrel and with the copy of The London Standard's article of April 8th, in which it rehashed its former sensational talk of the damage to European crops and the great deficiency in the world's yield for 1891. The latter, while but slightly different from the story published by the same sheet several weeks ago, was sufficient to fire the ardor of every bull trader on the floor and was the cause of one of the strongest bulges. Between 12:30 and 1 o'clock, the official closing cables were received. As they reflected an early rise here they had a sensational effect. This effect was further heightened by a dis patch from San Francisco saying that wheat had advanced 10 cents there since yesterday. This lifted May to 1.11 and July to 1.10% and the trading was within close. The feature of the corn market was its nervous strength early, and the evident desire of the holders to accept the profits on the bulge. The Liverpool market being quoted excitedly higher and the fever in the wheat deal were stimulating factors early in the session. May at the opening sold at 73½c., or 1c. higher than it closed yesterday. It declined later to 72½c. with a rumored sale or two at 73c. and advanced to 73c., and sold off again to 73½c., then up with a rush to 74½c. and off again to 72½c. at the close. The execution of orders was as difficult as on the previous day. tion of orders was as difficult as on the previous day, owing to the suddenness and violence of fluctuations. Cash corn was still worth a premium over May, but this was not so great as on the day before this was not so great as on the day before. The oats market was very excited at the opening, May starting at 55%c., and selling to 57%c. inside of a minute. The price advanced to 57%c, the highest figure that has been made on the crop, and then weakened to 55%c. The market recovered to 57%c, at the close, indicating a gain of %c. as compared with vosterday.

the close, indicating a wall between itself and its excited neighbors in the cereal crowd. The packers were evidently of the opinion that it was a good time to get rid of some of the immense stocks which they were carrying and sold freely, with the result of a downward tendency in prices. Though the opening prices were higher than the close yesterday, the last prices were higher than the close yesterday, the last prices show a decline of 2½c. to 5c. in pork. May lard lost 2½c., while July gained 2½c. Ribs show an advance of 5c. to 7½c.

THE GOFF WOMAN.

JUDGE WELLBORN IS SUSTAINED BY GOVERNOR NORTHEN.

The Other Side of the Case Stated Forcibly.
The Sentence of the Two Girls Is Commuted—The Mother Goes.

The Goff case was disposed of yesterday, so far as the governor is concerned.

As is usual in such cases, a statement was asked of the judge who presided at the trial.

The letters of Judge C. J. Wellborn, who sentenced Mrs. Goff and her two daughters, puts a very different face on the matter from puts a very different face on the matter from that presented by the prisoners themselves. The first letter, which practically covers the case, is given below:

"CLEVELAND, Ga., April 13, 1891—W. J. Northen, Governor, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sir: I have just read what The Constitution has to say in reference to the case of the Goff women, and from what I saw I infer that you would like to hear from me. In the first place, the mother of the unfortunate girls is not a widow, as I see she represents herself to be, but is the mother of a family of illegitimate children, one of whom is by a negro. In the next place, it is not true that they were denied the benefit of counsel when they were tried. Stating that they were unable to employ counsel, I appointed Hon. W. E. Candler and my son, C. J. Wellborn, jr., to represent them, and they made such defense as they could. They were so evicted early in the week, and I refrained from sentencing them until just before court adjourned, in the lovest the Lovell died some way of disposing of them until just before court adjourned, in the hope that I could find some way of disposing of their cases without sending them to the chain-gang. I announced from the bench, after their conviction, that, if any citizen of the county conviction, that, if any citizen of the county would take charge of the younger girl and undertake to control and reform her, she would not be sentenced at all, and every reasonable effort was made to find some such refuge for her. Failing in this, I was satisfied that she would be better off in the chaingang than if she was permitted to return to her evil associates at home. I am not surprised that a certain amount of avm-I am not surprised that a certain amount of sympathy should be awakened in their behalf, but I am surprised that it should be expressed in such a way as to make it appear criminal and cruel to punish crime by imposing the penalties the law prescribes. I imposed no fines in their cases be-cause they stated they had no means, and because I ascertained that some of their partners in crime I ascertained that some of their partners in crime were preparing to pay their fines, which would have amounted simply to a license to them to go on with their bad life, and would have virtually defeated the purpose of the law. If you can see any way of nitigating their penalty without hurt to law and public morals, I hope you will not hesitate to do so. I sought earnestly to find such way, and I assure you that it would have been a great relief to my feelings if I could have found a way which I could conscientiously adopt. I am heartily sorry for them, and I would be glad to see them at liberty, provided they are not returned to their old haunts, where they are a constant see them at liberty, provided they are not returned to their old haunts, where they are a constant and growing menace to the peace and decency of the country. I have deemed it proper to say this much in reference to my course in the matter, because I would not have you suppose that I have acted hastily or from any other motive than a sense of duty to the public. I instructed the sheriff if he could find any refuge for the young girl even after he reached Atlanta, to do so and turn her over to the chaingang, and if any arrangement could be made to find homes for both the young girls away from their mother and their injured. I am, very truly and respectfully, C. J. Wellborn. In a subsequent letter—being asked by Gov ernor Northen what the amount of the fine ought to be should the sentence be commuted in the cases of the girls-Judge Wellborn made a distinction in favor of the younger daughter. He recommended that the fine of the elder be old associates, I think they might be reclaimed, and I would heartily endorse any action which might secure this result. If they are returned to their old home, however, my opinion is that they would not be benefited and the country would be $50, and $25 for the younger. He added that Mrs. Goff had not only debauched her own children, but other girls; that only two or three weeks ago a fourteen-year-old niece who had been living with her gave birth to an illegitimate child, and that the grand jury had not already indicted her for the murder of the child because of the absence of certain witnesses.

Judge Weilborn again, however, sanctione policy of providing for the reformation of the daughters.

THE OFFICIAL ORDER. It will be seen from the official order that Judge Wellborn is sustained fully by Governor Northen, even to the minor point of a distinction being made in the fines imposed upon the girls.

The mother must go to the chaingang. The girls are allowed five days to pay their

This is the order: Whereand Lucinda Goff, were convicted of the offense of misdemeanor at the April term, 1891, of the superior court of Union county, and sentenced, the former to a term of twelve months in the chaingang, the daughters Lucinda and Lizzie each to a term of six months in the chaingang. each to a term of six months in the chaingang.
And, whereas, there has been an appeal to prevent the execution of said sentence by commuting the where as, the Hon. C. J. Weilborn, judge of the superior court of Union county, states in a letter to the department, that he "announced from the bench after their conviction that, if any citizen of the county would take charge of the younger girl and undertake to control and reform her, she would not be sentenced;" and, whereas, Judge Weilborn sanctions the suggestion that the sentences of the daughters be commuted, provided they can be properly cared for, and not allowed they can be properly cared for, and not allowed to return to Union county and to their former practices.

After carefully considering the facts, as they have been presented to me, the application of Mrs. Eliza Goff is refused. The sheriff of Fulton county, who now has Mrs. Goff in custody, is instructed to send her to the chaingang to serve the sentence of the court.

It is further ordered that the sentence of Lizzie Goff be commuted to a fine of $50 and all costs that have accrued, including expenses of transportation to Atlanta, station house and jail fees. Upon the payment of which by her or for her she may be given in charge to the petitioners who have asked for her release, that she may be properly cared for and reclaimed.

It is further ordered that the sentence of Lucinda Goff be commuted to the payment of a fine of $25 and costs, as stated above in the case of Lizzie Goff.

It is further ordered that, in the event said fines and costs are not paid within five days from this date, the said Lizzie and Lucinda Goff be also sent to the chaingang to serve their respective sentences as determined by the court.

"What became of your husband?"

"He': living with another wife. I know where he is. When he ran off I took my mother's name, Goff."

The younger daughter had said nothing, but was watching her mother in quiet sympathy.

The allegations are that on the evening of March 13th he was a passenger on one of the cars of the company, and at the intersection of Washington and Fair streets, being forced to ride on the rear platform in consequence of the crowded condition of the car, he was thrown from the platform and sustained very serious injuries from the fall.

His shoulder was sprained, one rib broken, and other injuries resulted which not only caused him to suffer great pain and loss of time, but cost him a large doctor's bill.

A Sad Mission.—Mr. Joe Mehan has just re-turned from a visit to New York, where he went to attend the funeral of his mother. Her death occurred on April 9th, after a short illness of la grippe. She was sixty-six years of age, and leaves three sons and five daughters to mourn the loss of a fond parent.

In Memory of Dole Wadley.

Died, in Portsmouth, N. H., April 9th, 1891
Dole Wadley, in the sixty-seventh year of his active and valuable life, the best part of which was spent in Georgia, the cherished state of his adoption, to which he was fondly attached and where he made a host of friends whom he loved to the last. His ancestors, the Wadleys, Morrills and Doles, were among the best and earliest English settlers in Massachusetts, whose descendants became brave revolutionary sires. Born in Brentwood, N. H., July 27th, 1824, and bred in his substantial New England homestead, he was a buoyant young type of New England worth and energy. He came to Washington county, Georgia, in 1846, bought the first town lot in Cross Plains, now Dalton, Ga., and built his first of many steam sawmills in Jefferson county in 1848, and constructed the first pairoad ever made Exclusively for the lumber flusiness. He and his brother, Moses, were the ploneers in sawing heavy bridge timber, which practically revolutionized the construction of railroads and broadened the great lumber manufacture of Georgia.

He had all the noble traits of character that distinguished the four Wadley brothers, who made their mark on the material progress of Georgia, and of whom he was the faurivior. Mr. Wadley was the soul of honor, generous in disposition, refined in taste and trustworthy in business. He lived a useful and spotless bareer, and died as if he was quietly failing asleep, leaving a fragrant memory of virtue and honor.

It has been said that skilfull advertising will accomplish wonders, and this is partly true, for it is no uncommon thing to see various nostrums achieve a brief notoriety in this way. But they do not outlast the notices that herald them. Thus it is that the mercurial and potash remedies are constantly appearing before the public in new disguises. Advertising, however, will not account for the popularity that S. S. has enjoyed for fifty years, nor for the fact that it has become a household remedy; nor will advertising account for the thousands of testimonials that the people have given in its behalf. Only the most substantial merit can account for the estimation in which this wonderful medicine is held. For Over Fifty Years.

The "Ouija,"

(We-ja), patented 1890. Most wonderful invention of the nineteenth century. Baltimore and all the cities of the United States are wild over it. A game and a puzzle. $500 for solution of the mystery. A mysterious parlor game.

This most interesting and mysterious talking board has awakened great curiosity wherever shown.

It surpasses in its results second sight, mind reading or clairvoyance.

It consists of a small table placed upon a large board containing the alphabet and numerals. By simply resting the fingers of two persons upon the small table it moves, and to, all intents and purposes becomes a living, sensible thing, giving intelligent answers to any question that can be propounded.

Wonderful as this may seem, the "Ouija" was thoroughly tested and the above facts demonstrated at the United States patent office before the patent was allowed.

Price only $1.50 and $2. You cannot make a better present than the "Ouija."

INMAN PARK

Auction Sale Continues Right Along, Tuesday,

April 21st, Beginning Promptly at 3 O'Clock.

The demand for these lots is very great. I know value increases. Just as certain as grass grows and water runs, the man that fails to get one of these lots on TUESDAY, 21st, will regret it the halance of his life, because he will be forced to ferior locality and pay a bigger price for even that prinilege. Atlanta is growing so rapidly in wealth and population choice lots are increasing in value almost daily. Inman Park is building up remarkably fast. Some of the finest private residences in Georgia are to be seen today in the park, while the best architects in the country are now at work perfecting plans for people who will build there this summer. Plats can be had at my office, showing the unsold lots. Remember this may be your last opportunity to get one at so cheap a figure, for I am instructed to sell them for just what the is now being placed on Hurt street, and in a few days the cars will connect with Euclid avenue. Take the cars at Pryor street, and be at the park by3 o'clock. Every lot offered will absolutely be

CUSTOM HOUSE.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION TO BE RENDERED BY JUDGE NEWMAN.

Whether the Act Extending the Charter of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company Is Constitutional or Not.

Is the act of the legislature extending the charter of the Western and Atlantic railroad company constitutional?

Judge Newman is called upon to answer this question, and the decision he renders will affect fifty to sixty cases—some of little and others of great importance to the litigants.

In October, 1890, Mrs. Eidson brought suit against the Western and Atlantic railroad in the superior court of Cobb county. The case was tried at the March term, 1891, before Judge Gober, and a verdict rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $5,000.

In December, 1890, Joseph E. Brown and E. B. Stahlman made application to the circuit court of the United States to be appointed receivers to take charge of the assets of the road at the expiration of its charter.

On the 27th of December, 1890, the legisla-ture passed an act extending the charter of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Company for the purpose of winding up the litigation then pending in the courts against the road. The act was passed the day before the charter, ex-

Under this act extending the charter, the case of Mrs. Eidson against the road was tried in the superior court and the verdict obtained Through her attorneys, Clay and Blair, of Marietta, she is now applying to Judge Newman to have the $5,000 paid out of the assets in the hands of the receivers, the company being solvent.

The company, by its attorney, Mr. Julius Brown, resists the payment and says the act extending the charter is unconstitutional, and the state court had no right to hear the case, and, therefore, the judgment obtained before Judge Gober is null and void.

The case was argued at length by Mr. Clay for the applicant and Mr. Brown for the road. Judge Newman has not rendered a decision and it will be looked for with interest, as all the suits pending against the state road will be affected by it.

At the Collector's Office. On the 20th Collector Johnson will commence issuing special tax stamps for the ensuing fiscal year.

Many of the retail dealers in manufactured tolacco have not yet learned that the tax they did pay has been repealed.

Dozens of applications for special tax stamps are still received daily. It costs the sender a little money and the office some trouble.

A BIG SUIT. The Widow of a Man Who Died in the on the public works.

He was sent to the stockade, and, being made to work in the rain, he caught cold and died.

Judge Clarke dismissed the case, so far as it applied to the city, and the suit against Mr. Mahoney was continued until Monday next.

GONE TO ST. LOUIS.

The Rhodes-Haverty Furniture Company Have Closed Out the Stock-Will Open in St. Louis.

The Rhodes & Haverty Furniture Company, who have been doing business on Whitehall street for a number of years, have sold out their immense stock of goods and have moved to St. Louis, where they will open, perhaps, one of the largest lines of furniture and carpets ever shown in the west. The firm is composed of A. G. Rhodes and J. J. Haverty. These gentlemen have made an enviable record while in business here in Atlanta. As financiers in the furniture business, they have few equals and no superiors. Mr. Rhodes is probably the best known furniture man in America. He owns and operates over thirty-five retail stores throughout the United States, and has a controlling interest in four or five large

Mr. J. J. Haverty, secretary for the Rhodes & Haverty Company, is a young man noted for his fine judgment and thorough knowledge of business. These gentlemen will doubtless make a great success in their new home.

Auction Sale,

Tuesday,April28th,

BEGINNING

AT 3 O'CLOCK P.M.

Here is an opportunity to buy a choice residence lot for a great deal less money than you will iget them in the future. The demand for this kind of real estate grows daily. The location, just east of the city limits, overlooks all of the surrounding hills and low grounds. The electric cars ran through this property every few minutes, giving prompt and rapid transit through the entire city. The water is pure, cold freestone; the neighborhood the equal of any in the south; Senator Colquitt, Colonel T. E. Walker, Judge Palmer, et al., live in the immediate neighborhood. Go out and examine the lots, see the beautiful drives and weigh the advantages, and you will conclude that right now is the time to buy. No investment has ever paid as handsome profits, as good real estate, and no person has bought a plece of first-class property in or near Atlanta, since it was Marthasville, and failed to realize big returns from its sale.

Home hunters now appreciate the fact that the business of Atlanta is increasing so rapidly that the noise and bustle near the center of the city create a great desire for lots on the hill tops that are just outside of the city. This is true around New York, Chicago and all the great cities.

Copenhill then is the very place to supply this demand. Then look ahead and buy while these lots are cheap, for, if you delay, you must pay more momey. If you are not ready to build, secure your lot at this sale, for nothing will pay you such interest.

The Liver

When out of order, involves every organ of the body. Remedies for some other detange-ment are frequently taken without the least effect, because it is the liver which is the real source of the trouble, and until that is set right there can be no health, strength, or comfort in any part of the system. Mercury, in some form, is a common specific for a slug-gish liver; but a far safer and more effective mendicing is
